1 THE CLERK: Your Honor, this is the matter of Orbital
2 Publishing Group Inc v. Bank of America N.A., docket number 3 eleven civil three zero six five.

4 Counsel for plaintiff, please state your appearance.

5 MR. LENNON: Good morning, Your Honor. David Lennon, 6 of Lennon & Klein, --

7 THE COURT: Okay, Mr. Lennon.

8 MR. LENNON: -- for plaintiff Orbital Publishing
9 Group.

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 THE CLERK: For defendant?

12 MR. CHENKIN: Good morning, Your Honor. David 13 Chenkin, from Zeichner Ellman & Krause LLP, for Bank of 14 America, and I'm here with my partner Jantra Van Roy of our 15 firm.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. CHENKIN: Thank you.

18 THE COURT: Mr. Lennon, have you seen the affidavit 19 declaration of Ms. Virginia Prieto [phonetic]?

20 MR. LENNON: Yes, Your Honor. It was handed to me 21 ten minutes ago.

22 THE COURT: Okay. What do you have to say?

23 MR. LENNON: Other than it's -- I mean, it doesn't 24 say any justification for withholding the money.

25 THE COURT: Right.

1 MR. LENNON: I mean, that -- I could go through it,
2 Your Honor, and point out all of its deficiencies.

3 THE COURT: Well, you've had it for ten minutes,
4 which is exactly ten minutes longer than I've had it, so why 5 don't you give me the benefit of your insight?

6 MR. LENNON: Well, they say two things. They say 7 they received an undisclosed number of returned checks, and 8 that my client Orbital was depositing checks that were endorsed 9 by Orbital but payable to another -- payable to a magazine.
10 That's completely proper. We don't dispute that that happens 11 from time to time.

12 Orbital Publishing is an independent magazine
13 subscription company. They send out thousands of magazine 14 solicitations to their customers for hundreds of different 15 magazines. Sometimes customers -- even though they're 16 instructed on the mail piece to make the check payable to 17 Orbital or one of its DBAs, sometimes the customer will make 18 the check payable to Time Magazine or the Wall Street Journal 19 or Fortune, or whatever magazine that they're buying. Under 20 the UCC that's a totally proper endorsement, and those checks 21 were deposited and have been cleared.

22 Now, according to the affidavit, some of those checks
23 have been returned and have been charged back to Orbital's 24 account, and that's happened over the past and we know that.
25 But all those checks have been covered by Orbital. They don't

1 talk about how much money there is or how many chargebacks
2 there are. We don't know if it's five or fifty. But either 3 way, Orbital has always honored its chargeback commitments to 4 Bank of America.

5 So I don't even -- I don't know what -- again, I 6 don't know what we're talking about. The affidavit states that 7 Orbital has deposited over thirteen million dollars to its Bank
8 of America account but they don't indicate how many chargebacks 9 there have been.

10 They also found some references on the internet that 11 Orbital is not authorized to solicit certain magazines and any 12 solicitations for those magazines should be considered 13 fraudulent. Those allegations against magazine subscription 14 agents, Your Honor, happen all the time. I don't know if my 15 client's even soliciting --

16 THE COURT: Do you want to continue business dealing 17 with Bank of America?

18 MR. LENNON: No, Your Honor. We just want our money 19 back.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 Mr. Chenkin?

22 MR. CHENKIN: Thank you, Your Honor. I'd like to 23 address two things that Mr. Lennon said. First of all, in 24 terms of an endorsement being appropriate under the UCC -- if I 25 may, let me just start with a caveat. I know you saw my

1 partner Steve Ellman yesterday. We just got involved in this 2 recently. I don't have all the facts, so I just want to be 3 careful about what I state as being a fact and what I've 4 learned.

5 In terms of the -- I -- as far as I know, the bank is 6 not aware --

7 THE COURT: No, what I'd like to know --

8 MR. CHENKIN: Sure.

9 THE COURT: -- and I know you've been on a short 10 notice here --

11 MR. CHENKIN: yeah.

12 THE COURT: -- is in what -- under what color of 13 authority does the bank impose a complete block on this and 14 then not -- and not deal with the banking customer? It's the 15 bank's -- it's not the bank's money, right? It's the 16 customer's money.

17 MR. CHENKIN: Well, yes --

18 THE COURT: The bank --

19 MR. CHENKIN: -- and no, Your --

20 THE COURT: The bank owes the money to the customer 21 subject to certain terms and conditions in the deposit 22 agreement.

23 MR. CHENKIN: Correct.

24 THE COURT: We all understand that.

25 MR. CHENKIN: That's right.

1 THE COURT: But part of it, at least in my experience
2 -- maybe limited -- is that when the bank does something, it 3 tells its customer. Here, you've done none of that.

4 MR. CHENKIN: Yes. And, Your Honor, one of the 5 things that I am hoping to be able, if Your Honor wishes, to 6 supplement our production with is the appropriate account 7 agreement governing this account. I believe that pursuant to 8 that account agreement either the bank or the customer can 9 terminate the relationship at any time. The bank is not 10 required to give a reason to the customer. And if there's a 11 suspicion of --

12 THE COURT: Excuse me. The bank is able to --

13 MR. CHENKIN: Is not required to give a reason to the 14 customer.

15 THE COURT: But how can they hold onto the money if 16 they don't give a reason to the customer?

17 MR. CHENKIN: Part of that agreement also provides -- 18 and I will provide it to the Court as soon as I have it. Part 19 of that agreement also provides that if there is a suspicion of 20 fraudulent or some type of --

21 THE COURT: Yeah.

22 MR. CHENKIN: -- similar type of activity that the 23 bank is within its rights to freeze the account for a period of 24 time until it has the time to make a reasonable investigation.

25 THE COURT: Well, you've froze it now for three

1 weeks.

2 MR. CHENKIN: I believe it's approximately three 3 weeks.

4 THE COURT: Well, April 14th right now is --

5 MR. CHENKIN: Three weeks.

6 THE COURT: Do we agree it's --

7 MR. CHENKIN: Granted.

8 THE COURT: -- more than three weeks?

9 MR. CHENKIN: Granted.

10 THE COURT: So I think that unless you give the money 11 back, Mr. Chenkin, by -- I'll give you a couple of days. I'll 12 give you till Friday the 13th to give the money back and to 13 identify whatever amounts you want to withhold and justify 14 that. But there's no reason for you to hold onto money in 15 light of what you're saying. Give it back.

16 I mean, if you want to withhold a portion -- I mean, 17 if Mr. Lennon wants to post a bond or give you a certified 18 check to guarantee that, I'm going to direct that you return 19 the entire amount on deposit. You know, if there's -- if 20 you've got an exposure here, I'll ask Mr. Lennon to cover that 21 exposure with a security deposit. But you've got to give the 22 money back.

23 MR. CHENKIN: Your Honor, we're in agreement with 24 that, and although it's an ominous date, Friday would be 25 acceptable. If I may just explain what the exposure is in

1 connection with posting this security, --

2 THE COURT: Yes.

3 MR. CHENKIN: -- because we don't object to returning 4 the funds as long as there is sufficient security for the 5 exposure.

6 THE COURT: Yeah.

7 MR. CHENKIN: In terms of these checks -- and I did 8 read Mr. Lennon's papers. My -- with all due respect, I think 9 they focused on the wrong thing. Just because checks had been 10 deposited a time ago -- these accounts have been open since, I 11 believe, last October. And just because checks were deposited 12 a time ago and a small amount of them, according to the 13 plaintiff, have been returned as bad or insufficient funds, 14 that's not the bank's real exposure here.

15 The bank's exposure here is the chargebacks that are 16 reflected on the account statements that are attached to 17 plaintiff's papers. So if a person sends a check to plaintiff, 18 and if it turns out that the plaintiff did not have the 19 authority to act on behalf of, say, the Wall Street Journal, 20 and if I thought I was extending my subscription with the Wall
21 Street Journal, and I sent the plaintiff a check, the Wall 22 Street Journal cancels my subscription and says we don't have 23 any relationship with the plaintiff, that's not us, I go back 24 to my bank and I look at that check and I see that it's made 25 payable to the Wall Street Journal but it's not endorsed by the

1 Wall Street Journal, it's endorsed by the plaintiff and it was 2 deposited to the plaintiff's Bank of America account, and I go
3 back to my bank and I make a claim on the drawee bank to say 4 that you should not have paid that check, and it would be 5 correct under the UCC, and the drawee bank has to reimburse the 6 customer, and the drawee bank has a claim against Bank of 7 America because Bank of America was the depository bank --

8 THE COURT: How many times has that happened in the 9 last eight months?

10 MR. CHENKIN: I cannot swear to it, but I spoke with 11 someone this morning who said that the number of checks that 12 have been returned so far under that scenario is approximately 13 six hundred, which is a lot of checks. The dollar amount, 14 because each one of these checks apparently is for a magazine 15 subscription -- you know, which are not thousands and thousands 16 of dollars. The dollar amount -- I'm getting -- and I could 17 supplement the papers, but there's no question that the dollar 18 amount is small compared to the thirteen million dollars that 19 had gone through the account since October.

20 But that's really the concern, Judge, because the 21 concern is people aren't finding out about the fact that their 22 subscriptions really aren't being extended for a long period of 23 time, because often you would extend your subscription a couple 24 of months before it expires, and then you find out three months
25 later that you're not getting your Wall Street Journal, and you

1 do some investigation, and you see that you have a check that 2 you wrote in last November, that's not good, and you make a 3 claim against your bank --

4 THE COURT: Could you tell me one thing, Mr. Chenkin?
5 With all due respect to your argument, --

6 MR. CHENKIN: Yes.

7 THE COURT: -- why don't you tell that to Orbital?
8 Not you.

9 MR. CHENKIN: I understand that.

10 THE COURT: Not you. You just got involved. But why 11 doesn't your bank that you so ably represent tell that to the 12 customer?

13 MR. CHENKIN: Judge, with all due respect, the bank 14 is at the very beginning stages of what they believe is a 15 potentially serious fraud investigation. It is customary for 16 the bank to not have that type of conversation with anybody, 17 number one.

18 Number two, --

19 THE COURT: They withhold their funds for three 20 months -- or, excuse me, three weeks and don't give them any 21 explanation at all?

22 MR. CHENKIN: Well, --

23 THE COURT: Won't even answer their phone call?

24 MR. CHENKIN: Number two, Your Honor, I believe -- 25 and again, Mr. Lennon was there. I wasn't. I grant him that.

1 I believe there was an issue with the authority of counsel to 2 discuss the bank account with the bank. The bank has --

3 THE COURT: Oh, please.

4 MR. CHENKIN: I know you're laughing, but listen.

5 THE COURT: Please. You know, the bank is now asking 6 for Mr. Lennon's bona fides?

7 MR. CHENKIN: No, no, no, no. If I may for one 8 second, Your Honor, --

9 THE COURT: Yeah.

10 MR. CHENKIN: -- part of the fraud investigation is 11 the following. There were two authorized signers on the 12 account. One was an officer of the company and one was one of 13 the bookkeepers who signed one of the declarations here. The 14 bank had found out, I believe very recently, that the officer 15 of the company passed away in February. So the only authorized 16 signer on the account, the only person authorized --

17 THE COURT: Is the bookkeeper.

18 MR. CHENKIN: -- to speak with the bank, is the 19 bookkeeper. And I believe that there was an issue with 20 obtaining authority from the bookkeeper for the bank to discuss 21 the accounts with someone outside of the company, which is the 22 counsel. I wasn't there. I'm not making an excuse. All I'm 23 saying is that I believe that there may be issues there that 24 aren't simply a stonewall by the bank.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. CHENKIN: And to bring it back to just the last 2 point that I wanted to make, if I may, Your Honor, the claims 3 that can be made by the drawers of the checks against Bank of 4 America -- that has a very long tail. Those claims in New York 5 State could be made for six years under the UCC and, under the 6 UCC that's adopted by the enlightened rest of the country, 7 usually three years.

8 So there could be a situation where the bank -- I'm 9 not saying all thirteen million, but there is a potential for 10 those checks -- particularly given the internet research that 11 the bank had done and the -- and the fraud concern, there is a 12 potential that we could have a tail here whereby checks that 13 get charged back to Bank of America that Bank of America has 14 already given credit to the plaintiffs for could far exceed the 15 four hundred thousand dollars that remains in the account right 16 now, which is one of the reasons that we respectfully request 17 that if the -- if the Court is going to issue a TRO, require 18 the bank to return the funds, that the bank has equal security 19 in the amount of the funds that are currently on deposit, 20 because I fear that I may be standing here six months from now 21 saying Judge, we're now up to over a million dollars in 22 chargebacks, and we don't know where it's going to end.

23 We just don't know. It's too soon in the process.
24 And plaintiff would ultimately be liable to the bank for every 25 dollar of checks that are charged back. And being a UCC

1 lawyer, my real concern is if they have a check that's payable 2 to Redbook or the Wall Street Journal, and they don't have an 3 endorsement from that entity, and they're just stamping their 4 name on the back and depositing it, and they have no agreement 5 with that entity to endorse in their name or endorse without 6 their name, Bank of America is going to be stuck for every one 7 of those checks. Thank you.

8 THE COURT: And in the -- you can't tell me of the 9 thirteen --

10 MR. CHENKIN: Approximately thirteen million in 11 credits from --

12 THE COURT: -- thirteen million two hundred and 13 ninety-five thousand dollars which has transited this account 14 from October through April --

15 MR. CHENKIN: Right.

16 THE COURT: -- October of 2010 through April of --

17 MR. CHENKIN: Correct.

18 THE COURT: -- April 14th of 2011 --

19 MR. CHENKIN: Yes.

20 THE COURT: -- some thirteen million dollars, you've 21 had six hundred claims?

22 MR. CHENKIN: Six -- approximately six hundred checks 23 that have come back so far, and the amount is a small amount.

24 THE COURT: So far for insufficient funds, or for --

25 MR. CHENKIN: No, I --

1 THE COURT: -- for claims --

2 MR. CHENKIN: I believe that they -- I believe that 3 all or most of them -- and I could confirm it; it's just I've 4 been in this for a couple of hours -- were returned because the 5 endorsement of plaintiff on the check was not the payee that 6 the check was made payable to.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CHENKIN: So it's as if there was a check payable 9 to you, Your Honor, and I took it, somehow I got it from you,
10 and I put my own endorsement on it, David Chenkin, and I 11 deposited it to my account. There is no endorsement from you.
12 I don't have any authority from my bank that says that the name 13 David Chenkin is -- suffices for the name of Judge Crotty, and 14 I put it in my account.

15 I can tell you that the drawer of that check can go 16 back to his or her bank and be reimbursed for the amount of 17 that check if it turns out that it really was without 18 authority, and that's the real concern here. And the real 19 concern is --

20 THE COURT: And do you --

21 MR. CHENKIN: -- that there's a lot of those.

22 THE COURT: Do you know, Mr. Chenkin -- and maybe you 23 don't know, so if you don't, you'll tell me that -- what the 24 average amount is of the checks that are in this group of six 25 hundred? Is it fifty dollars? Is it a hundred dollars?

1 MR. CHENKIN: Judge, I honestly don't know. I spoke 2 to someone -- you could see the affidavit of some fraud
3 investigator in California. She was in her office at five 4 thirty this morning. Those are her regular hours, by the way.
5 But in order to get the information for this stuff, Ms. Van Roy 6 and I have been working on this largely through the night, and 7 -- but I just don't know the average dollar amount.

8 I can tell you, Your Honor, that although I don't 9 have it for sure, I believe that the total amount of the 10 chargebacks, if you look at the accounts, today are probably 11 less than fifty thousand dollars. But the point is that it 12 takes a long time -- this account's only open since last 13 October.

14 It takes a long time for David Chenkin, whose 15 magazine -- subscribing in three months, who sends the check 16 in, to finally figure out at the back end that I got hoodwinked 17 and I'm not getting my subscription, to go back to my bank. I 18 would have -- in New York I could have six years to go back to 19 the bank on a forged endorsement.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 Mr. Lennon?

22 MR. LENNON: One point of law I need to, I think, 23 correct Mr. Chenkin on. Six years for a check is for 24 conversion. That's not the claim here. The claim here is for 25 an improperly endorsed check made payable to a particular

1 payee.

2 There's no allegation that the clients or the 3 customers of Orbital that sent the checks to Orbital had a 4 solicitation that said buy this magazine from us, pay the check 5 to us, and we'll get you the magazine. And that's what 6 happened.

7 THE COURT: Listen --

8 MR. LENNON: The six hundred that he's talking about 9 are people that wrote checks payable to the Wall Street Journal 10 and sent back the solicitation remittance to Orbital. That's 11 not a -- that's not a forged endorsement.

12 THE COURT: You don't want to do business with Mr.
13 Chenkin's client.

14 MR. LENNON: Well, --

15 THE COURT: Mr. Chenkin's client doesn't want to do 16 business with you. So I'm going to direct the return of the 17 money. It's only subject to a sufficient amount of security.
18 Now, my recollection in your TRO papers, which I did not sign, 19 Mr. Lennon, because you hadn't given notice to your attorney -- 20 the attorneys on the other side, which you have to do, but -- 21 Marlon, do you have the order to show cause? Do you have the 22 order --

23 MR. LENNON: Your Honor, for the record, --

24 THE COURT: Yeah.

25 MR. LENNON: -- I gave notice to the bank. They

1 | didn't have counsel --

2 | THE COURT: Yeah, I understand.

3 | MR. LENNON: -- and they wouldn't tell me who their
4 | lawyer was.

5 | THE COURT: Yeah, I understand.

6 | MR. LENNON: And as for this --

7 | THE COURT: Just bear with me. Okay, you're willing
8 | to post a bond. How much is the bond you're willing to post?

9 | MR. LENNON: Your Honor, it should be a de minimis
10 | amount. I mean, even --

11 | THE COURT: Okay.

12 | MR. LENNON: -- ten thousand dollars.

13 | THE COURT: No. It should be about ten percent of 14 | the -- ten percent of the amount that you're seeking returned.
15 | That's four hundred thousand dollars. You post a bond of forty
16 | thousand dollars, and I'll direct that Bank of America return
17 | the -- return the funds by Friday the 13th.

18 | MR. LENNON: Thank you, Your Honor.

19 | MR. CHENKIN: Your Honor, maybe I --

20 | THE COURT: Mr. Chenkin?

21 | MR. CHENKIN: May I be heard on that for a moment?

22 | THE COURT: Yes.

23 | MR. CHENKIN: With all due respect, if that's the
24 | amount that Your Honor is requesting, --

25 | THE COURT: It's ten percent.

1 MR. CHENKIN: That's fine.

2 THE COURT: That ought to be adequate in light of 3 what happened.

4 MR. CHENKIN: The -- my concern, though, Judge, is 5 that the returns that are potentially going to come back are 6 going to dwarf that amount. And if the bank --

7 THE COURT: I know that's your concern. But if your 8 concern is that -- if that's the -- and I know it's not your 9 concern but it's the bank's concern.

10 MR. CHENKIN: Yes.

11 THE COURT: You're representing your client. But the 12 client has an obligation here as well, and it should have told 13 Orbital a long time ago. I mean, it just can't stick its head 14 in the sand. You know, Mr. Lennon's papers are convincing in 15 terms of the bank's ignoring any kind of disclosure obligation.
16 I thought maybe the government was trying to seize these 17 materials, the bank -- the proceeds. But it's not. It's just 18 the bank who's conducting its own investigation. They don't 19 give an explanation. I've never heard of that.

20 MR. CHENKIN: With all due respect, Your Honor, it -- 21 the account agreement, the contractual agreement, from -- 22 between the parties allows the bank to do that.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm going to enter my order, 24 Mr. Chenkin, and Mr. Lennon will prepare the order, serve it on 25 you. Make sure you have no objection, and -- other than the

1 ones you've already voiced, --

2 MR. LENNON: Your Honor, --

3 THE COURT: -- and it's to preserve, and I'm going to 4 direct you by Friday the 13th, the close of business on the 5 13th, to return the amount on deposit now in -- from Orbital 6 that's now on deposit with Bank of America, and subject to 7 Orbital Publishing posting a bond in the amount of forty 8 thousand dollars, such bond being against the costs and 9 exposure that you may have because of the reasons that you 10 cite.

11 Yes, Mr. Lennon?

12 MR. LENNON: Your Honor, as an alternative, so that 13 we don't have to go to the expense of posting the bond, if Bank 14 of America would take forty thousand dollars of the proceeds 15 and they could pay that to the clerk of the court, would that 16 satisfy the security requirement? It would be the same thing.

17 THE COURT: Mr. Chenkin?

18 MR. CHENKIN: I don't think I have a problem with 19 that.

20 (Off the record discussion)

21 MR. CHENKIN: That would be acceptable, Your Honor, 22 if we could arrange for an order to have the bank pay it into 23 the court.

24 THE COURT: Well, you negotiate that with Mr. Lennon, 25 and --

1 MR. CHENKIN: That's --

2 THE COURT: -- you submit the order on notice.

3 MR. CHENKIN: That's correct. And in connection with 4 my negotiation with Mr. Lennon, I want to bring up one last 5 point, please. The account, although it's closed, is still 6 getting returns daily. And the procedure that the bank goes 7 through is it honors those returns and reduces the amount in 8 the account, as is banking practice.

9 THE COURT: Any pending items that you have you 10 should process in the normal course --

11 MR. CHENKIN: Process, and --

12 THE COURT: -- in the normal course of business.

13 MR. CHENKIN: Up until the day that we return the 14 funds.

15 THE COURT: Till the close of business on Friday.

16 MR. CHENKIN: Close of business. That's what I 17 wanted to make clear.

18 THE COURT: Yeah. Yes.

19 MR. CHENKIN: Thank you very much.

20 THE COURT: Process anything that you have. And 21 you're free to do that. And then you'll do a true-up with Mr.
22 Lennon as of the close of business on Friday.

23 MR. CHENKIN: Very good.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. CHENKIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Anything else?

2 MR. LENNON: Thank you, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Thanks very much.
